Spatial Awareness

- The idea around spatial awareness is that we as coaches need to be aware of everything that is going on around us while in the ski resort environment; where we are, what our guests are doing and what other guests are doing in order that we may avoid collisions and hence keep ourselves and our guests safe.
- If we know what's going on around us we can predict what people are going to do and we can avoid incidents before they happen.
- While we all bring a certain degree of spatial awareness to the job, this skill can also be taught and improved upon with training and experience.
