

Hello Team Heavenly,

The National Weather Service has issued a warning about snow loads on roofs. Please make sure your teams are aware of the potential hazards of snow shedding from roofs. Please take to time to safely mitigate any snow from roofs in your work areas, if you cannot safely mitigate please close the area for access until it can be mitigated. Please do not create a new hazard while trying to solve another.

More information on NWS warning check this link:

<https://www.wrh.noaa.gov/rev/avalanche/>

The screenshot shows the National Weather Service Forecast Office website for Reno, NV. The header is blue with the text "National Weather Service Forecast Office" and "Reno, NV". Below the header is a navigation bar with links: Home, News, Organization, FAQ, and a Share button. The main content area features a yellow banner with the text "Hazard Alert - Roofalanches" and "Do NOT stand or play under roofs in the Sierra". Below the banner is a photograph of a roof covered in snow. A text box on the left of the photo states: "Heavy rain today will increase the likelihood of dangerous snow shedding from roofs in the Sierra". Below the photo, it says "Roofalanche occurred this morning (2/13) in Truckee". At the bottom of the photo is the National Weather Service logo and the text "NATIONAL WEATHER SERVICE Reno, Nevada". Below the photo, there is a link "Click to view Weather Story." and two bullet points: "• Avalanche Warning - Wed Feb 13 7:42 AM PST 2019" and "• Winter Weather Statement - Wed Feb 13 7:50 AM PST 2019".

Thank you,

Darren Smith
Senior Manager, Health and Safety
Heavenly Mountain Resort
Safety is a part of Good Leadership!

